Dear Mr. Young -

Several years ago, in Feb. 1961, to be exact, a newspaper article was sent to me from Picton, Ontario, a page from the Picton Times. "Why Unity of Empire" was the title. I read it with great interest since my grandmother, who brought me up, came to California from Picton in the early sixties. Her name was Agnes (Grimm) she had two sisters and four brothers. The sisters were Fannie and Sarah Ann. The brothers were, William Nelson, John, Douglas, James. They were all the children of James and Lavinia Nelson Grimm. In the above mentioned article you wrote that you had been assigned to compiling family histories and I am wondering how I might find some one who would explore the back history of the James and Lavinia Cumming family. Could

I impose upon you the task of letting me know, and the approximate cost of the research.
I am inclosing stamped,
addressed envelope to contain this information.

Thank you for reading this.
Most sincerely,

Clydes Scott Trumbly

Dear Mrs. Trumbly:

As I have had no response to my letter of May 3, I assume that you have changed your mind about research into the ancestry of your Cummings family. Very likely my letter was not optimistic, and likely the estimated cost might well have been beyond your expectations. I know well the situation when it comes to prying into the past generations. This has been my hobby for thirty, and more, years. Once that I had exhausted possibilities in my own family, it was then that I became interested in the past of the pioneer settlers of this district. As a result, I have more than 800 files on different families. This work has been a source of pleasure, as well as satisfaction. In many cases I have rescued from oblivion many original records—obituaries, family records from discarded bibles, old family letters and documents, etc., etc. It is my hope that future generations will benefit therefrom long after my name is forgotten. The time and money spent in this hobby is water down the drain. I might well have had equal pleasure in fishing or drinking. Who knows? So think no more of it!

However, being an ardent genealogist, I could not rest until I had solved the Cummings problem, more for my own satisfaction than for yours. So, I drove the twenty five miles to the County Office, where I spent about two hours searching out your Cummings. I was fortunate in finding two wills which extend the ancestry of your grandmother for four generations. Foolishly, perhaps, I obtained xerox copies which I have added to my Cummings file, where they will remain in the hope that some unborn descendant will find them, and be proud to know that someone cared enough to preserve them.

As I have much additional information, now that the wills have closed the gap, I suggest that you take the time to come east. If I am still alive, this file will be available to you for as long as you wish to peruse it.

Yours sincerely,

Upstairs where the public is seldom admitted and appearance need not be kept up, I have another scheme, or rather the same one using different containers. You have probably bought those sweet buns sold in the thin aluminum pan in which they were baked. I have sphagnum moss in these pans and from six to eight tiny pots of baby plants in each. They are just sitting on top of the moss, and so dry out as fast as ever. But now I can give each plant what I am sure would be too much water if it were in a saucer, and come away with a clear conscience. I know the moss will soak up the water that runs through. So there you have it—my pet labour-saving device. These particular plants get my attention only once a day. All the other voilets have to be handled at least twice. It takes me at least an hour to go over them the first time, and at least once a week an extra hour to shift them about to keep pace with their growth.

Of course, by next summer there will be far fewer, at the rate I am going. They are leaving the house half a dozen at a time. But where I am going to find an hour a day for them next spring when the big garden is crying for all my time, is more than I know. It is hard to make a choice.

Here I am, all my space gone and only a couple of last year's lessons reviewed! Well, there's always another week coming. See you then!

Meanwhile, a Happy New Year to you . . . and good gardening in

Note 21

There appear to have been at least two Loyalists named John Cumming (Comming, Cummins, or Cummen). One was a soldier of the 84th and another a merchant of Philadelphia. A John Cumming settled at Marysburg and one drew a town lot at York in 1793. The Kingston merchant of this name was a J.P. and Commissioner of Roads, 1807. He had previously been a benefactor of St. George's Church. John Cumming and Co. were agents for the ship YORK; and John Cumming was one of the partners in the steamship FRONTENAC in 1816. On March 25, 1806, a man of this name became one of the trustees of the proposed Catholic Church; but in 1813 a son of John Cumming was baptized at St. George's.

Mrs. G. W. Trudly,
Rt. 2, Box 503,
Carmel, California.

Dear Mrs. Trudly:

Your letter addressed to Mr. Young has been passed to me for disposal. Mr. Young, unfortunately, died about three years ago, leaving a few sketchy families' histories. Unfortunately, there was no reference to the family in which you are interested.

Your letter was handed to me, as I am the genealogist of our local United Negro College Association and because I have been interested in local history for many years.

For your information, Bath is situated on the north shore of the Lower Bay of White. Kingston, population 40,000, is 17 miles east of Bath. Monrovia is 17 miles west, and Freetown 22 miles west, both on the Bay of White. My interest in local and family history covers this area, and I am familiar with many such families.

As so often happens, there are several distinct and unrelated families of Cummings, Cummings, in this region, as

1. John, a merchant of Kingston.
  2. James, brother of John, a merchant in Freetown. I omitted two other
  3. John, a discharged soldier, south of Monrovia. names, Robert &
  4. Major Cummings, an Irishman, a landowner on Longest Island, across the Bay from Bath, in the 1730's. Mr. Cummings.
  5. James Cummings, another Irishman, who settled south of Freetown in 1784.
- The first three lived in the period 1720-1835.

So, you can see the problem ahead of you to determine just which family is yours. The path may be easy, if fortune shines upon the effort. In some cases in my experience the problem was never solved in spite of exhaustive search. Still, if you have the urge to probe into your past, as I have, you will never be satisfied until you have investigated all angles. So, I suggest the following search items:

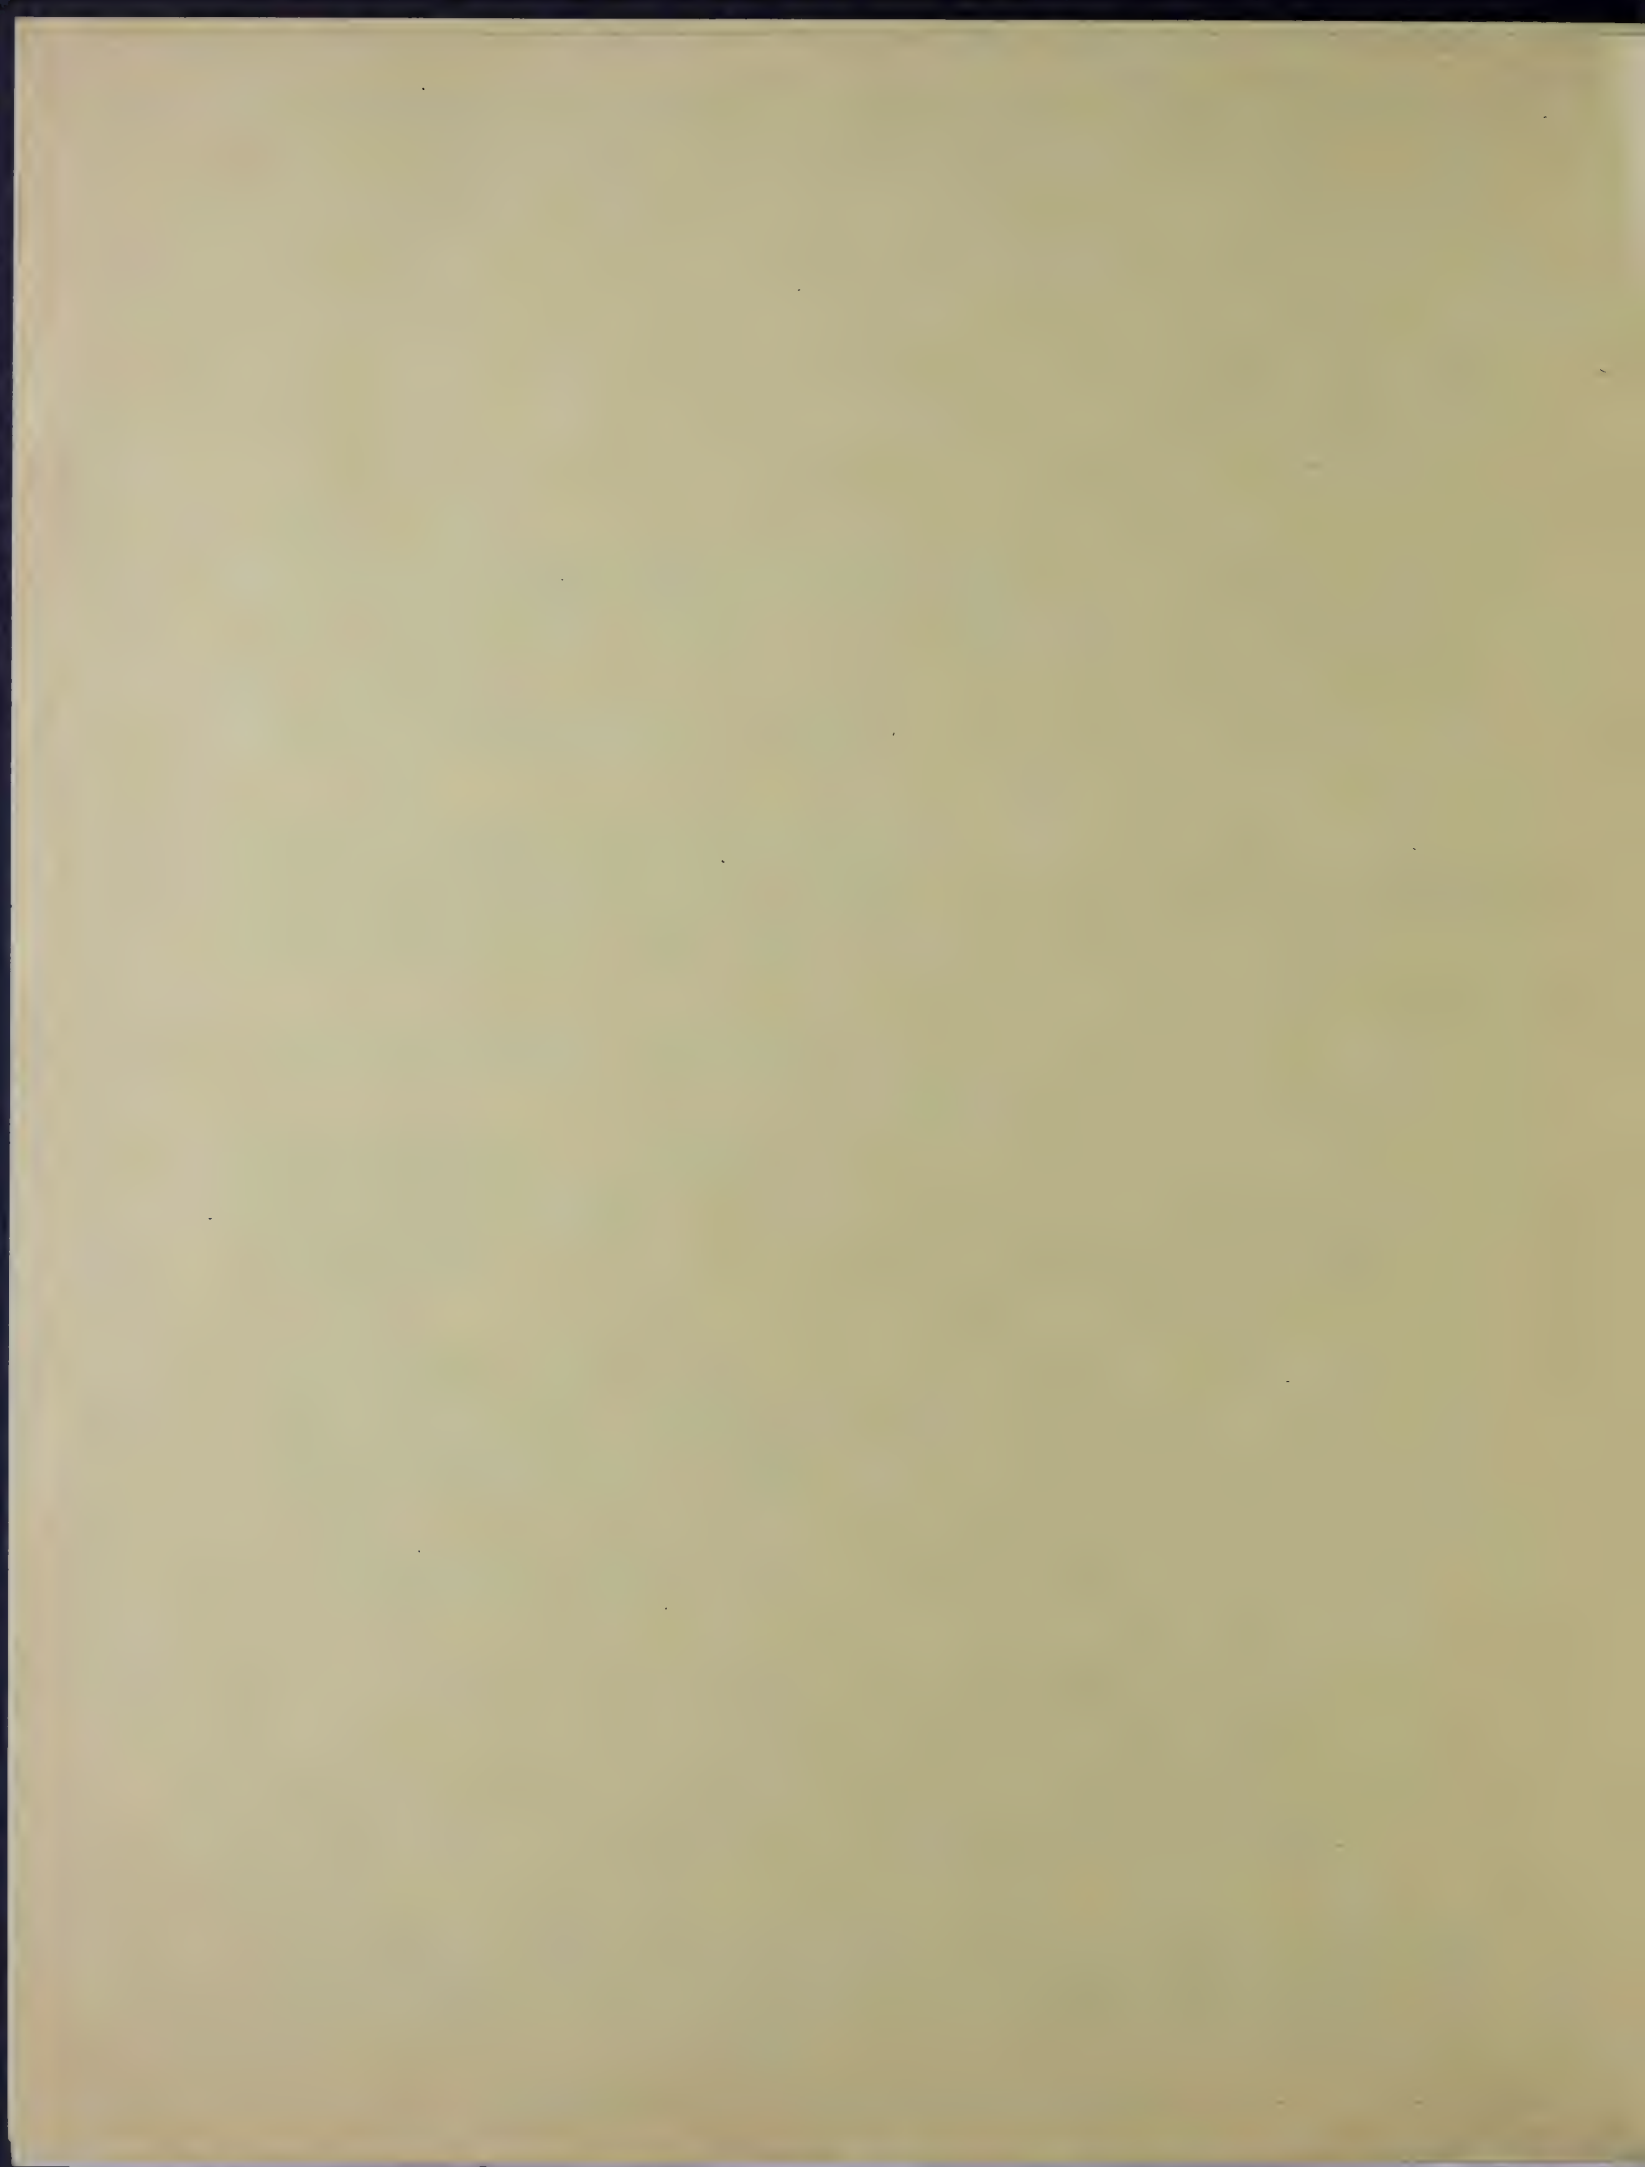

1. Please fill as much as possible of the enclosed genealogical form.
2. A review of all histories, old and new, histories and obituaries relative to this area.
3. Review of land records in the Freetown-Monrovia area. This might turn up early wills and land transfers which might throw light on the activities of James Cummings' ancestors.
4. Land applications when this country was settled. These are found in the Public Archives of this Province, and can be obtained in many copies.
5. Census records of this region in 1851, 1861 and 1871, the only dates available to the public.

I do not know how much you wish to spend on search. However, I can say that a great deal can be done at a cost of not more than fifty dollars. You must realize that it would involve trips by car to Freetown, to the Registry Office and to local libraries. And, using the above five items as a guide, you can control the expenses as you wish.

Your answer is awaited.

Sincerely,

Prince Edward County Cemeteries.

Dr. Armstrong says I ought not to omit the name of James Cummings, Esq., merchant, of the Port of Hallowell, now Pictou. He was a man of sterling integrity, upright and just in all his dealings. He was greatly respected and esteemed, and died in the midst of his manhood, greatly lamented, about the year 1818. He was a younger brother of the late John Cummings, of Kingston.
